“…everyone who is seeking to save themselves by their own performance will experience a curse subjectively. At the very least, attempting to be saved by works will lead to profound anxiety and insecurity, because you can never be sure you are living up to your standards sufficiently, whatever they may be

This makes you over sensitive to criticism, envious and intimidated by others who outshine you. It makes you nervous and timid (because you are unsure of where you stand) or else swaggering and boastful (because you are trying to convince yourself of where you stand). Either way, you live with a sense of curse and condemnation.

“He [Jesus] is not acting in his own person now. Now he is not the Son of God, born of the Virgin, but he is a sinner, who has and bears the sin of Paul, the former blasphemer, persecutor, and assaulter; of Peter, who denied Christ’ of David, who was an adulterer and a murderer, and who cause the Gentiles to blaspheme the name of the Lord.

In short, He has and bears all the sins of all men in his body – not in the sense that he has committed them but in the sense that he took these sins, committed by us, upon his own body, in order to make satisfaction for them with his own blood.
